

Ellanor C. Lawrence Park

ACTION

As winter comes to a close, it's nice to experience the chilly weather one last time. Thus, on February 19th, amidst enjoying spring's windy breeze, Hiking Heroes hiked through the vast trails of Ellanor C. Lawrence Park, picking up many pieces of litter on the way!

EXPERIENCE

Being equipped with trash bags and gloves, our members hiked around for stray pieces of plastic and paper along the trail. This ensures that people may take in the beautiful scenery without the obstruction of trash.

This hike was very breathtaking crossing many bridges over beautiful streams and seeing plants and wildlife starting to flourish for the spring.

MEMBER'S THOUGHTS

Overall, although we have been to Ellanor C. Lawrence Park many times before, this hike was truly special. The nice weather, along with the positive energy we bring on this day made for helping our environment to not just be impactful, but also equally enjoyable!
